When we can help

Team issues rarely fix themselves. Concerted effort is required and this is where a skilled external facilitator may help, allowing the team leader to participate fully inside the group.

Co-creating assignments

We start with you and the team, from where you are, involving you in a shared design to suit your preference and needs. We work in a wide variety of formats, both indoor and outdoor.

Indoors or outdoors

Most of our team interventions are indoors - We may just need an empty room and some chairs. We also take teams outdoors, sailing 19th Century yachts on the English Channel. Getting a team to learn to sail a classic yacht together is a perfect metaphor for project team working and creates a real sense of team accomplishment. It can be perceived to be a luxury and expensive. In reality it is neither.
